

You are a system. You are not just your stomach. Your stomach doesn't exist hanging in space. It is a part of an intricate mechanism and is intimately in relationship with its surrounding cells, tissues and organs. So are all of your 'seeming' parts and pieces. You also don't end where your skin ends. Your electricity and your field extend way beyond your physical body. The physical, the electrical, the emotional, the energetic bodies all form an interwoven, extraordinary, and an always changing system.

You interact with other systems. You don't exist in the ether all alone. Just like your stomach, your physical, emotional and energetic bodies interact with everyone and everything around you. You get affected by other people, other planets, and the stars including the Sun. And you, in turn, affect everything there is.

You are a probability cloud disguised as a body. The ability of your system to re-organize and make itself whole is unbelievable. Moment-to-moment you get to make choices, even choosing your own energy and vibration, and your whole system responds to your choices. Every single time you make a life-supporting choice, you are changing your system and everyone and everything around you in a positive way.

You are a multi-layered, multi-dimensional light-being. So your healing cannot and will not be just one dimensional. You need to take into account how everything in your life works or doesn't work, and you need to figure out how and where to start. Here's the secret: your system actually knows exactly where and how to begin your healing journey.

When I tune into your system, I sense your vibrational reality and I translate that experience into words. Some people call this intuition. Some call it clairaudience. I call it bringing what your system needs and wishes you to see, hear, understand and transform to light. Let me know if you need my help.

Damla